Subject: Notification to Industry 11/23/2021:
Durham County Utilities – Stirrup Iron Creek Project Approvals

NOTIFICATION

Temporary Hold on Projects within Stirrup Iron Creek Basin

Durham County Utilities is placing a temporary hold on all new development within the Stirrup Iron Creek Pump Station basin. This pump station was last upgraded in 2019 but given the robust development within this area, we must perform an in-depth evaluation to ensure adequate service for existing and already permitted customers. The County is already working with our partners to begin this evaluation and will hopefully be able to complete this work in the next few months. See the attached map to identify the geographic area impacted.

What projects will be impacted by this hold?

All projects within the Stirrup Iron Creek Pump Station, Page Point Pump Station, and Page Park Pump Station basins that have not already been issued system capacity. This includes new projects, projects currently in Site Plan review, projects that have Site Plan approval which have not submitted Construction Documents to the County, and existing customer capacity increases.

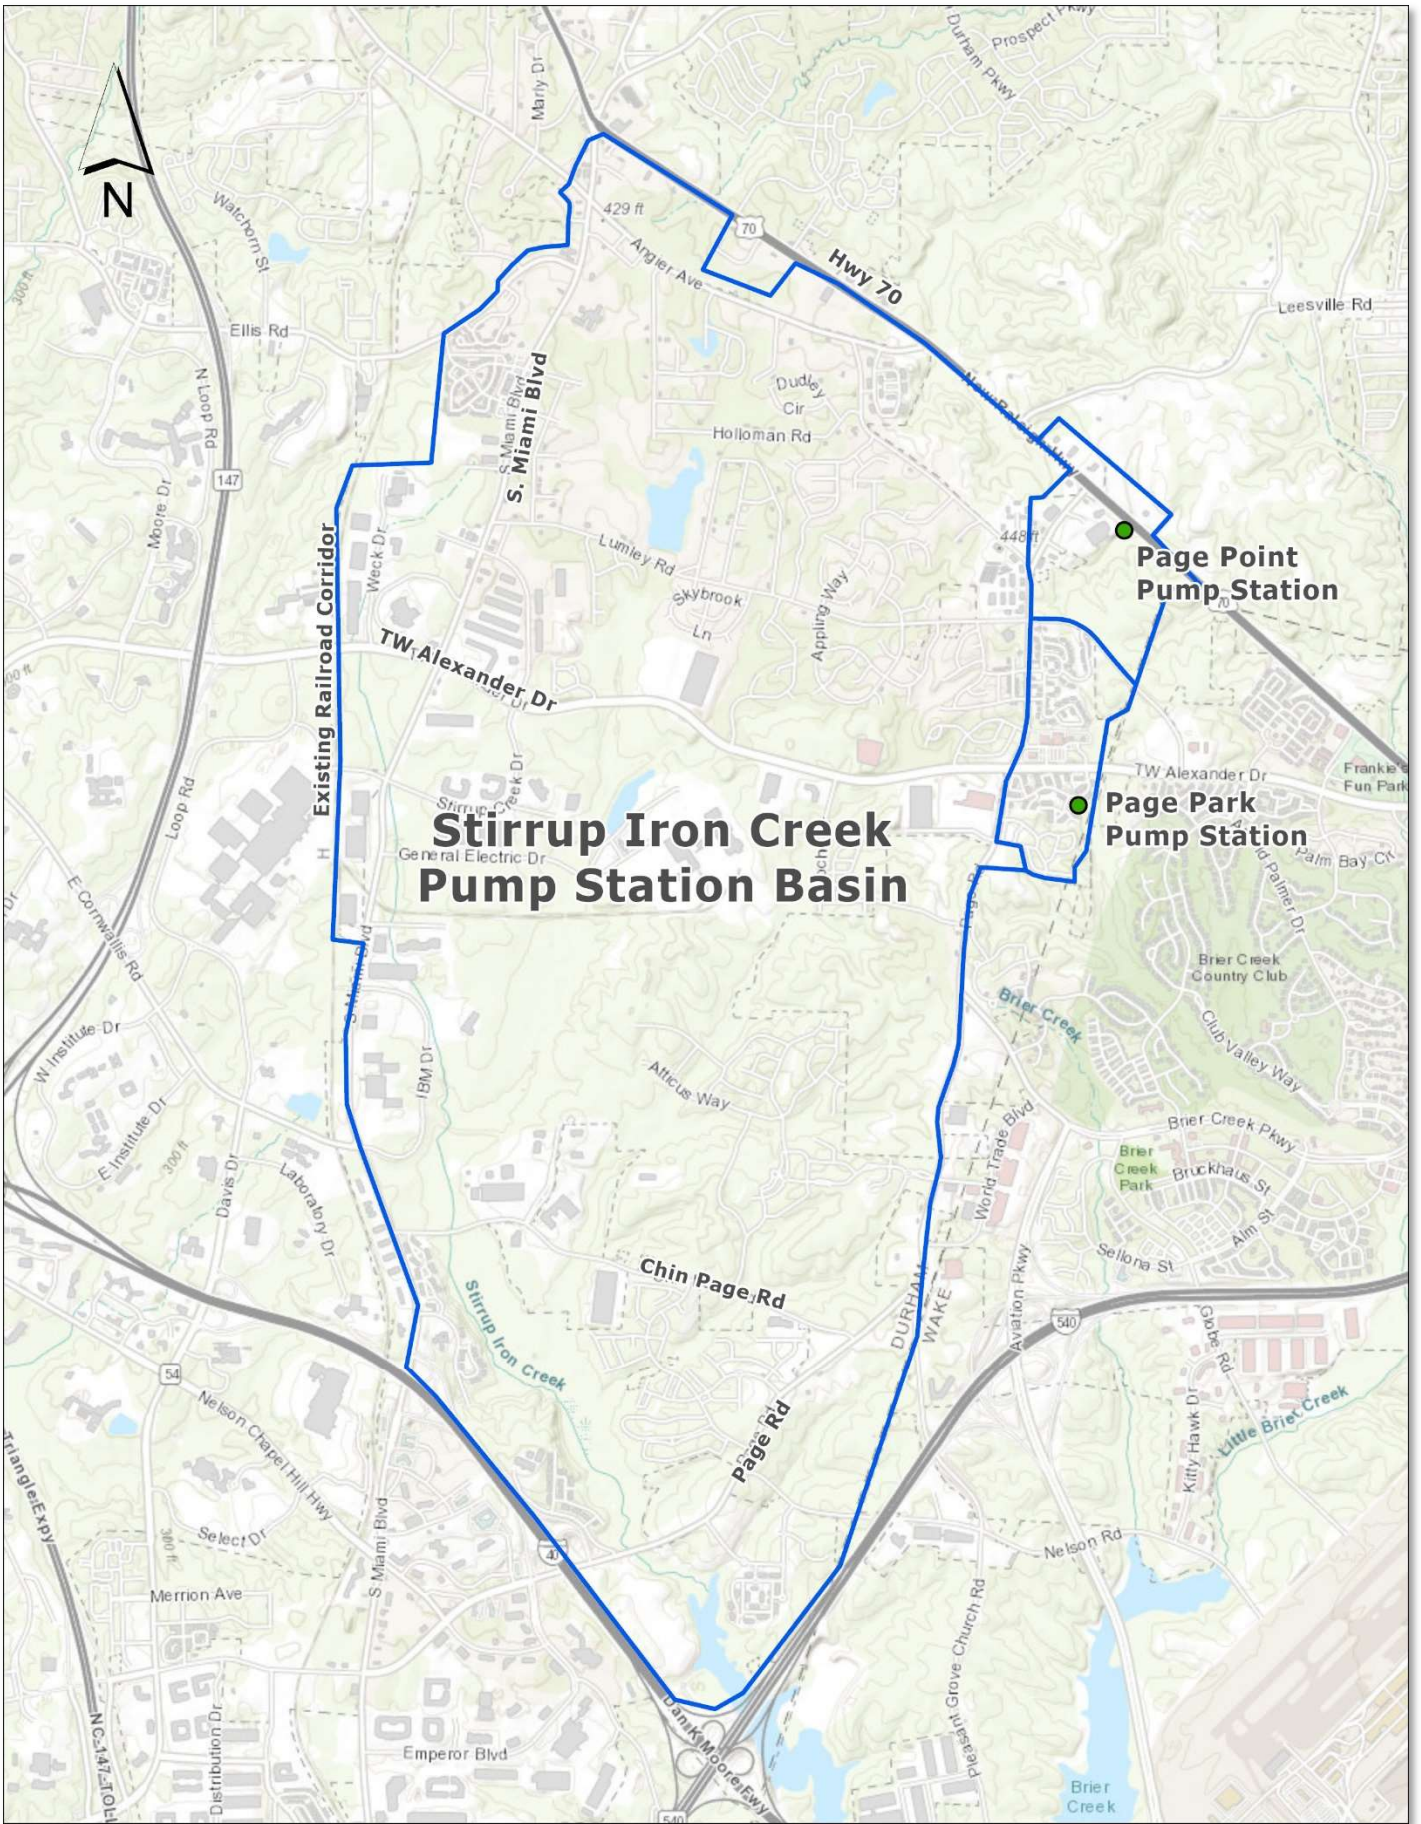

How will you know when the hold is lifted?

Durham County Utilities will issue another Letter to Industry once all necessary evaluations are complete to identify if the hold will be lifted or further restrictions imposed.

The requirements stated herein are effective immediately. If you have any questions relating to this notification, please contact:
