Patrol Services Bureau

The City of Durham's Police Department Patrol Services Bureau is responsible for providing patrol services to all of Durham's five districts. The officers assigned to each district are the first responders to events that happen in their assigned districts. They normally arrive to crime scenes before specialized Units like our Selective Enforcement Team (SET) that are highly trained and is specially equipped to handle hostage and barricaded-subject situations, sniper, counter-sniper, and terrorist activities. Due to the Patrol officers being the first on scene, it may sometimes be necessary to equip them with ballistic shields to protect the patrol officers against forced entry, riots, active shooters, and other dangerous threats. Funding will be used to purchase five ballistic shields, one for each district to be used in highly dangerous crime scenes, where the Patrol Unit is the first to respond.

Mobile Field Force

To ensure effective service to the Durham community, the police department utilizes the mobile field force to address civil unrest and deter further criminal actions. Recent history shows that protests that turn violent spawn numerous additional hazards to police personnel. Rocks, bottles, bricks, feces, urine, and fire have all been used as weapons against police – in addition to other traditional weapons such as firearms and bladed weapons. These officers must be supplied with specialized protective gear and receive specialized training to handle these dangerous situations. Funding under this grant will be used to replace fifty outdated ballistic helmets, used be the mobile field force team.
